

During this “practice” period, participants can get familiar with how their context is visualised, and make informed decisions about what streams they want to share with their partners

We have a 1st interview after 1 week of sharing the contextual data so we can capture participant's first impressions, taking advantage of novelty effects

Then we wait 2 more weeks for the 2nd interview, to learn about their experiences past the novelty effects